Another way is to pickle herring and leave it to ferment. This dish is called "surströmming" in Sweden. You can eat it straight out of the jar, but make sure you have a clothes peg ready, because no other country has anything that tastes like it, or that smells like it!

UNIVERSAL DISPENSERS

Dispensers from the ND 1500 and ND 1600 series can be used wherever a versatile dispenser is needed, both in terms of tape width and the manner in which the dispenser is secured. (ND 1500 and ND 1600 dispensers can be fixed in 8 different ways).

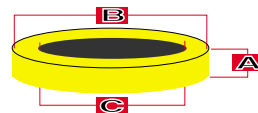

These dispensers are ideal for all types of packaging work and in the graphic arts industry.

The ND 1500 series comes with an adapter, enabling the user to use tapes with a core diameter of either 25 mm or 76 mm.

All types of tape can be used.

ND 1500 and ND 1600 can be screwed in place on the desk or bench top (screws supplied.) ND 1524 and ND 1624 are supplied with a clamp fitting. The ND 1500 and ND 1600 series are produced with an electro-galvanised finish.

Series 3175

The Swedes are pretty good at bandy, a sport which is played on ice with a small, bright red ball. They are usually the World Champions, unless they are beaten by Russia that is. Maybe that's only because the sport isn't played in many other countries though. But the sport is becoming more popular. In 1995, the World Cup was held in the USA, and Sweden won!

ND 4125 - 4150

The only city on the island of Gotland is Visby, the city of Roses. In the 13th century, the inhabitants began building a city-wall around the town to protect themselves and their trade from the farmers around Visby. In the summer of 1361, King Valdemar Atterdag of Denmark massacred an army of farmers just outside the wall. Half of the island's farmers were killed. In 1645, Gotland became Swedish, and an era of peace began....

ND 4155 - 4160 - 4163

Sweden's first house built from plans was erected in 1731. The house shown here has been built from those same plans. IKEA, the company which was started as an insignificant business in Småland about 50 years ago, can be seen in the background. It is now the biggest furnishings store in the world, with stores in 25 countries. The company has more than 1,500 suppliers around the world.
